A workplace comedy about a group of teachers brought together in one of the worst public schools in the country, simply because they love teaching. The teachers will rely on each other to make it through the day, and find a way to counteract the school district's bullshit attitude toward educating children. The eternally optimistic Janine is in her second year teaching at an underfunded, underserved elementary school in her hometown of Philadelphia, where she comes up against jaded but devoted teachers, children in challenging situations and a principal who's basically out to lunch. Ackley Bridge is a small Yorkshire town, home to largely divided white and Asian populations. The two sides of the community have been previously served by separate schools. However, as the formerly isolated comprehensives are merged into a brand new academy, the lives and cultures of each community collide, giving us a gritty, truthful and humorous insight into modern Britain.

All American, All American: Homecoming is a young adult sports drama set against the backdrop of the HBCU (Historically Black Colleges and Universities) experience at Brington University, where Black excellence is a way of life. The series follows Simone (Maya), a young tennis hopeful from Beverly Hills who is trying to fight her way back to great after some time away from the court, and Damon (Smith), an elite baseball player from Chicago who is carrying the weight of the world on his shoulders. After Simone's aunt Amara Patterson (Jenrette), a journalism teacher and activist, exposes a scandal that threatens to derail the school's beloved baseball program, new coach Turner (Hadriect) is determined to bring a championship back to Brington the honest way — with Damon's help. Damon will adjust to his new normal with fellow baseball player and childhood friend JR (Powell) by his side. Meanwhile, as Simone struggles to find her footing, she will get a little guidance from Thea (Hyde), the super-competitive queen bee of the Brington tennis team, and Keisha (Walker), the school's unofficial mayor, who will help Simone learn how to live her best life. As they contend with the high stakes of college sports, Simone and Damon will also navigate the highs, lows, and sexiness of unsupervised early adulthood at a prestigious HBCU. Andrew Yancy (Vaughn) - late of the Miami Police and soon-to-be-late of the Monroe County sheriff's office - has a human arm in his freezer. There's a logical explanation for that, but not for how and why it parted from its shadowy owner. Yancy thinks the boating-accident/shark-luncheon explanation is full of holes, and if he can prove murder, the sheriff might rescue him from his grisly Health Inspector gig (it's not called the roach patrol for nothing). But first Yancy must negotiate an obstacle course of wildly unpredictable events with a crew of even more wildly unpredictable characters, including his just-ex lover, a hot-blooded fugitive from Kansas; the twitchy widow of the frozen arm; two avariciously optimistic real-estate speculators; the Bahamian voodoo witch known as the Dragon Queen, whose suitors are blinded unto death by her peculiar charms; Yancy's new true love, a kinky coroner; and the eponymous bad monkey.

The true story of a crucial moment in history that shaped the American (and world) landscape. Bushy Run, Pennsylvania was the location of the 1763 battle that ended Pontiac's War and kept the French forces in Canada -- and the British in control of what was soon to become the United States of America. Led by the heroic efforts and tactical genius of Col. Henry Bouquet, a raggedy group of Scottish and makeshift British forces brought peace to the new world. Bouquet's willingness to face insurmountable odds and leave the love of his life (Anne Willing) saved the men, women, and children of Fort Pitt (Pittsburgh) from annihilation and ultimately reunited hundreds of kidnapped children with their families. Beverly Hills PD officer Axel Foley has to return to his battered home city of Detroit to recover a dangerous piece of evidence that he traded to save his friend's life. Axel's been living in Beverly Hills for almost 20 years, banishing his hometown of Detroit after his fiancée was killed in a gang fight. But when his old pal Billy is shot and threatened with death, Axel steals a piece of highly dangerous evidence to save him - then has to retrieve it in Detroit so his other old friend Captain Taggart doesn't get in trouble with the FBI. Axel isn't welcome in Detroit by the overstretched police department so, much like in the past, he has to investigate on his own. He teams up with Cyrus, an undercover cop, and Tarantula Jack, a criminal facilitator, to take down Talasko before he can sell a valuable microfiber that terrorists could use to forge passports. Undermanned and barely armed, Axel uses his wits to take down numerous gangsters and ends up relying on the very city he deserted to have his back in taking down Talasko.

This is the whimsically gritty story of a deaf and mute young man named Boy, who is raised by a Shaman to be the assassin to avenge the bloodthirsty tyrant that runs their town, Hilda Van Der Koy, who murdered Boy's family. Boy grows up in an odd family; his parents appear to be guerrilla fighters against the current regime, and his best friend and ally is his sister Mina, who loves him and protects him through her weekly "escapes" and the power of her imagination. When Mina and his parents are killed during one of tyrant Hilda Van Der Koy's "Culling" massacres, a grief-stricken Boy vows to get vengeance, and throws his lot in with Shaman, who promises to train him to be the warrior who can one day kill Hilda. Despite his best efforts, Boy is just a child who can't withstand Shaman's punishing routines, particularly when tempted by visions of Mina or a hot bowl of noodles. Eventually, Boy tosses aside his childish things and throws himself into his training with Shaman, learning discipline, self-denial, and every kind of fighting there is.

One sweltering summer in the Park, a housing complex outside of Toronto, Michael and Francis are coming of age and learning to stomach the careless prejudices and low expectations that confront them as young men of black and brown ancestry. While their Trinidadian single mother works double, sometimes triple shifts so her boys might fulfill the elusive promise of their adopted home, Francis helps the days pass by inventing games and challenges, bringing Michael to his crew's barbershop hangout, and leading escapes into the cool air of the Rouge Valley, a scar of green wilderness where they are free to imagine better lives for themselves. Propelled by the beats and styles of hip hop, Francis dreams of a future in music. Michael's dreams are of Aisha, the smartest girl in their high school whose own eyes are firmly set on a life elsewhere. But the bright hopes of all three are violently, irrevocably thwarted by a tragic shooting, and the police crackdown and suffocating suspicion that follow. (September 20 - October 23)

 The Changeling is a fairytale for grown-ups. A horror story, a parenthood fable and a perilous odyssey through a New York City you didn't know existed. When Apollo Kagwa (Stanfield) and Emma Valentine have their baby, Brian, it feels like both a reward and a challenge for the new dad. Apollo, the son of a single mother, had been scraping by as a bookseller who hunts estate and garage sales for rare first editions, so even the unusual circumstance of Brian's birth (on a stalled subway train) seems like a blessing, as does the way Apollo stumbles across a first edition of To Kill a Mockingbird (inscribed by Harper Lee to Truman Capote, no less) shortly thereafter. But after some young-parent squabbles and inexplicable images on their smartphones foreshadow trouble, the story turns nightmarish: Apollo finds himself tied up and beaten by Emma, then forced to listen to the sounds of Brian's murder.

 Based on the colorful life of Brit actor, tough guy and lothario, John Bindon. The project will chart the rise and fall of underworld hard-man turned actor Bindon, who despite a successful acting career and passionate romantic liaisons with various socialites, was unable to leave his criminal past behind. Bindon was frequently in trouble as a youth for getting into fights and spent time in borstal. He was spotted in a London pub by Ken Loach who asked him to star in his film Poor Cow in 1967 and went on to play a violent mobster alongside Mick Jagger in Performance (1970) and a London crime boss in Michael Caine classic Get Carter (1971). He was well known for relationships with socialite girlfriends including Christine Keeler, the former Playboy 'Bunny Girl' Serena Williams and Vicki Hodge, with whom he had a turbulent and abusive 12-year relationship. According to legend, his liaisons even extended to Princess Margaret, with whom he spent three weeks at her Caribbean home. Bindon was alleged to have connections to the Kray Twins and the Richardson Gang. In the late 1970s, in addition to acting work, he provided security for actors and musicians, including Led Zeppelin on their 1977 U.S. tour, where he was sacked for brawling backstage. In 1978, Bindon was tried for the murder of London gangster Johnny Darke. Bindon pleaded self-defence and was acquitted, but the case damaged his reputation.

John Lee Bishop emerged from a rough and tumble childhood to become pastor of The Living Hope Church, which became so big at his peak that it filled an 8500 square foot former K-Mart superstore in Portland Oregon. A natural showman who would bring exotic animals for a sermon on Noah’s Ark, and once almost got mauled by a Bengal tiger he brought to the pulpit, Bishop became wealthy as the star performer. While the church catered to lost souls with the theory anyone could be forgiven, Bishop didn’t handle the affluence well and his parishioners would not forgive him when the married preacher was caught in an affair with a church employee, and for a raging painkiller and drinking problem. Bishop’s son, David, who developed a meth and heroin habit, and the preacher found a perplexing method of intervention. Bishop had a terrible childhood, subjected to bare knuckle fight club matches with other kids organized by his uncles for their amusement. Determined not to fail his son, Bishop insisted on taking the drugs with the youth, to understand their power over him. That led to Bishop’s road to smuggling drugs for a Mexican cartel. Caught at the Mexican border after 20 runs, Bishop was convicted and sentence to five years behind bars.

Daisy Jones & The Six is a fictional account of one of the biggest bands in the history of music, in spite of or perhaps because of their complex relationships and personal demons. The band suddenly broke up in the middle of a tour, and up until now no one has ever known why. It's the story of America's coming of age in the 1970s, a time when rock stars were gods, a group of young people with once in a generation talent who make it bigger than they ever dreamed, but in the process everything they thought they knew about themselves and life is challenged. At its core, Daisy Jones is a love story. The love of a particular sound, the love of family, the love of your life, and the love you don't want but maybe can't live without. It's about the messy impulses of the human heart.

In the turbulent summer of 1974, Kate Mularkey has accepted her place at the bottom of the eighth-grade social food chain. Then, to her amazement, the "coolest girl in the world" moves in across the street and wants to be her friend. Tully Hart (Heigl) seems to have it all---beauty, brains, ambition. On the surface they are as opposite as two people can be: Kate, doomed to be forever uncool, with a loving family who mortifies her at every turn. Tully, steeped in glamour and mystery, but with a secret that is destroying her. They make a pact to be best friends forever; by summer's end they've become Tully and Kate. Spanning more than three decades and playing out across the ever-changing face of the Pacific Northwest, Firefly Lane is the poignant, powerful story of two women and the friendship that becomes the bulkhead of their lives. From the beginning, Tully is desperate to prove her worth to the world. Abandoned by her mother at an early age, she longs to be loved unconditionally. In the glittering, big-hair era of the eighties, she looks to men to fill the void in her soul. But in the buttoned-down nineties, it is television news that captivates her. She will follow her own blind ambition to New York and around the globe, finding fame and success and loneliness. Kate knows early on that her life will be nothing special. Throughout college, she pretends to be driven by a need for success, but all she really wants is to fall in love and have children and live an ordinary life. In her own quiet way, Kate is as driven as Tully. What she doesn't know is how being a wife and mother will change her...how she'll lose sight of who she once was, and what she once wanted. And how much she'll envy her famous best friend. For thirty years, Tully and Kate buoy each other through life, weathering the storms of friendship---jealousy, anger, hurt, resentment. They think they've survived it all until a single act of betrayal tears them apart and puts their courage and friendship to the ultimate test. (August 30 - April 20)

A gripping drama inspired by the iconic true story of the Brink's-Mat robbery and the decades-long chain of events that followed. On the 26 November 1983, six armed men broke into the Brink's-Mat security depot near London's Heathrow Airport, and inadvertently stumbled across gold bullion worth £26m. What started as 'a typical Old Kent Road armed robbery' according to detectives at the time, became a seminal event in British criminal history, remarkable not only for the scale of the theft, at the time the biggest in world history, but for its wider legacy. The disposal of the bullion caused the birth of large-scale international money laundering, provided the dirty money that helped fuel the London Docklands property boom, united blue and white collar criminals and left controversy and murder in its wake.

High School is a transcendent story of first loves and first songs. Through a backdrop of 90s grunge and rave culture, the series tangles itself in the parallel and discordant memories of two twin sisters Tegan and Sara, growing up down the hall from one another. This is a story about finding your own identity — a journey made even more complicated when you have a twin whose own struggle and self-discovery so closely mimics your own.

Duff stars as Sophie, who is telling son the story of how she met his father, much like Josh Radnor (and Bob Saget's) Ted Mosby did in the original series. The story starts in 2021 where Sophie and her close-knit group of friends are in the midst of figuring out who they are, what they want out of life, and how to fall in love in the age of dating apps and limitless options. Lowell will play one of the friends, Jesse, who is smart, with a bit of an edge and cynical about love. Chronicling the mortal and immortal lives of Louis De Pointe Du Lac as told to the journalist Daniel Malloy. His companionship with the Vampire Lestat and rearing of their Vampire Child Claudia. His escape to Eastern Europe. His nights with the Theatre Des Vampires in Paris. His reconciliation with the Vampire Lestat in New Orleans. The new Interview With The Vampire series will follow Daniel Malloy "an award-winning investigative journalist". Daniel takes this second chance to report one of the most significant stories of his career as a journalist. Daniel travels to the other side of the world to interview the 146-year-old vampire, Louis De Pointe Du Lac. Louis shares the tale of his astounding and sinful journey to immortality once and for all. With a career full of ups and downs he considers himself a wealth of knowledge and experience and now, during the COVID pandemic, Daniel Malloy is also a professor teaching an online class. Daniel has the chance to conduct an interview with a vampire for the second time, Louis de Pointe Du Lac. In the past Daniel's drug use inhibited his professionalism during the first interview so he knows he needs to conduct it the right way this time. Louis is a 33-year-old Creole brothel owner, who has maintained a veneer of self-assuredness and pride through hubris and belligerence. And while respected by many he was disregarded by his wealthy counterparts for his skin color. "For truth and reconciliation" Louis calls upon Daniel, an investigative journalist, to finally tell his true tale. Louise is millennially depressed because, well, being called a millennial doesn't help. She got dumped, she makes no art even though she says she's an artist, and all her friends are bullshit. She's been doing everything she can to distract herself from her real pain, her mother's rapid deterioration from Alzheimer's. One night, Louise shows up at her ex's place, uninvited, and manages to fall and break her hip while trying to scale his outer gate, landing herself in physical therapy with "the greatest generation" (#arguable). There, she meets Antonina, an 86-year-old Polish woman who can't speak a word of English. Louise unhappily cares for Antonina one day when they're both stranded at the bus stop, letting the older woman sleep at her place that night. It's kind of weird, but they also start to enjoy each other's company, especially when they realize they both have the same rebellious streak inside of them. Louise ends up being Antonina's caretaker and they even become friends. But Louise can't help being Louise. She takes Antoinette out dancing one night, gets too drunk and doesn't notice when Antoinette falls, hurting herself. Louise has to confront her selfishness, the shitty care that she's been giving Antonina, and her own fractured relationship with her mother, Dorothy. Louise finally returns to NorCal to see Dorothy, who has now lost her ability to speak. It's awkward. But, ultimately, Louise is able to forge a connection with her mother, one that goes beyond words.

For the last decade, the iconic heroes and villains of The Vampire Diaries and The Originals have captivated audiences worldwide. They left an enduring legacy of love and family in their wake, which continues in LEGACIES, a thrilling new drama that tells the story of the next generation of supernatural beings at The Salvatore School for the Young and Gifted. It's here that Klaus Mikaelson's daughter, 17-year-old Hope Mikaelson; Alaric Saltzman's twins, Lizzie and Josie Saltzman; and other young adults — including political scion MG and the mysterious Landon Kirby — come of age in the most unconventional way possible, nurtured to be their best selves...in spite of their worst impulses. Will these young witches, vampires and werewolves become the heroes they want to be — or the villains they were born to be? As they fight to protect their secret, their town of Mystic Falls and eventually the world, they will have to rely on ancient folklore and tales to learn how to battle their far-reaching enemies.

Motherland is an epic military fantasy set in an alternate America where witches ended their persecution 300 years ago by cutting a deal with the U.S. government to fight for their country. The project is set in contemporary times where young women conscript at 18 and receive basic training in combat magic at a base called Fort Salem. In this world, the traditional roles of gender & power are flipped. Women are on the front lines, fighting looming terrorist threats that are familiar to our world, but their tactics & weapons are supernatural. The show follows three young women from basic into early deployment; Abigail (whose mother is a decorated general), Tally (whose own mother doesn't want her to have anything to do with the military) & Raelle (who's outraged at her own mother's death while serving). The young women struggle with their personal lives & their relationship to each other as they & their comrades fight the powerful witch terrorists known as The Spree.

News reporter Brandi Michaels finds the 2007 economic and housing collapse in central Florida an apt metaphor for her turbulent life. If a looming divorce and her mother's Alzheimer's were not enough, her journalistic dreams are devastated when she is demoted from Orlando to a rural outpost. But when her editor sends Brandi to cover a story on a church struggling to purchase a motel for homeless families, she finds her cynical news persona challenged as she encounters Cecil, a winsome former drug addict, and sees for herself the selfless and epic struggle of the church as it seeks to impact the community for good. Her coverage of the story eventually helps the church acquire the motel and also plays a role in Brandi's personal redemption as she witnesses first hand the stories of all those involved. Her article becomes an award winning piece, serving as a catalytic model to helping homeless families in other communities, and gives her the journalistic impact she had craved all along. Based on the true story of First Baptist Leesburg, Cecil Johnson and the Samaritan Inn. (September 7 - 26)

At West Point Academy in 1830, the calm of an October evening is shattered by the discovery of a young cadet's body swinging from a rope. The next morning, an even greater horror comes to light. Someone has removed the dead man's heart. Augustus Landor—who acquired some renown in his years as a New York City police detective—is called in to discreetly investigate. It's a baffling case Landor must pursue in secret, for the scandal could do irreparable damage to the fledgling institution. But he finds help from an unexpected ally—a moody, young cadet with a penchant for drink, two volumes of poetry to his name, and a murky past that changes from telling to telling. The strange and haunted Southern poet for whom Landor develops a fatherly affection, is named Edgar Allan Poe.

Pivoting follows three women, Amy (Coupe), Jodie (Goodwin) and Sarah, after the death of their childhood best friend. Faced with the reality that life is short, in desperate attempts to find happiness, they make a series of impulsive, ill-advised and self-indulgent decisions, strengthening their bond proving it's never too late to screw up your life. Coupe's Amy is the funny, offbeat producer of a local cooking show who resolves to spend more time with her children following the death of close friend Coleen — even though she knows next to nothing about parenting and finds 30 minutes her kids frankly exhausting. Amy is also trying to help her other two best friends — Jodie and Sarah — who are both at comical crossroads in their lives. (September 13 - November 9)

Renfield is Dracula's human "familiar," who's been in service to him for hundreds of years, and who by the way eats bugs for energy. He attends a support group for people trapped in controlling relationships, and relieves his stress by murdering abusive partners of his fellow group members. When one of them turns out to be crossways with the Lobos crime family, he inadvertently ends up with a briefcase of drugs that belongs to the Lobos crime family, and he lures Henry Lobos and his goons out to recover it at the docks and kills them all, bringing them to the sewers for Dracula to feast on them. Rebecca observes him and sets out to bring him in for murder, and when she attacks him, he falls in love at first sight. Meanwhile he seeks to get out of his commitment to Dracula, which is met with a firm rejection. After Rebecca arrests him and is wounded in the process, he takes her to his apartment and cares for her, and protects her when Lobos goons attack them there. She comes to understand he's got a good heart but still defers to the law and hands him over to the FBI for prosecution for murder. When Dracula teams up with the Lobos and sends rats to devour Renfield in his cell, he is saved by Rebecca and agrees to go on a killing spree to help her raid the Lobos compound and lock up Ella. He battles Henry and kills him, then rescues Rebecca from Dracula's fangs and together they defeat and kill him too, and he and Rebecca begin a romance. After Ella's court conviction, he visits his long lost daughter who he's kept hidden away from Dracula for many years. (January 24 - February 28)

A manufactured, corporate town, forced on them right as adolescence is in full swing. But the more time they spend there, the more they come to realize that the town is more than it seems and their father may be concealing dark secrets. Secrets that could destroy the world. Cut to the second timeline, well over a decade into the future: there are less than fifteen million people left on Earth. And more than six billion monsters — people and animals infected with the T-virus. Jade, now thirty, struggles to survive in this New World, while the secrets from her past — about her sister, her father and herself — continue to haunt her. An innovative feature weaving together eight different 8-12 minute short films. The film will chronicle a few days in the life of a seemingly average young woman, as she uses her few days of precious freedom to go on a road trip filled with discovery and experiences. Its protagonist is Jane (Jacobs), who finds herself tumbling through a gauntlet of surreal, beautiful, and heartbreaking adventures. After dropping off her daughter at a summer camp for the first time, and encouraging her reticent child to engage in new experiences, Jane finds herself heeding her own advice. Each of the creatives brought onto the project will bring to life one chapter in Jane’s journey. The only through-lines across films will be the character played by Jacobs, and her Mach-E vehicle. Each filmmaker will make their short without awareness of the others’ story and approach.

The series will be set in the aftermath of the dissolution of the Romulan Empire, which would have altered the balance of power in the galaxy. The destruction of Romulus would also have extra resonance for Picard, who has a long and complicated relationship with the Romulans, the alien race that split from Vulcan society thousands of years ago and founded a separate civilization. A thriller drama set in 1970s London, Steel chronicles a self-made woman's rise to power. It centers on Madeline Crowe (Erivo), a fiercely ambitious arms dealer who seizes control of her own destiny in a high-octane and dangerous profession dominated by her male colleagues. The daughter of Nigerian immigrants, driven by an insatiable hunger to win at all costs, yet beholden to her son as a single mother, Crowe is forced to confront the kind of person, deep down, she really is. Steel explores how choices made by individuals desperate in pursuit of money and power shape the geopolitical landscape of our present, and how women like Madeline were the vanguards.

In Superman & Lois, after years of facing megalomaniacal supervillains, monsters wreaking havoc on Metropolis, and alien invaders intent on wiping out the human race, the world's most famous superhero, The Man of Steel aka Clark Kent (Tyler Hoechlin) and comic books' most famous journalist, Lois Lane (Elizabeth Tulloch), come face to face with one of their greatest challenges ever – dealing with all the stress, pressures and complexities that come with being working parents in today's society. Complicating the already daunting job of raising two boys, Clark and Lois must also concern themselves with whether or not their sons Jonathan (Jordan Elsass) and Jordan (Alexander Garfin) could inherit their father's Kryptonian superpowers as they grow older. Returning to Smallville to handle some Kent family business, Clark and Lois are reacquainted with Lana Lang (Emmanuelle Chriqui), a local loan officer who also happens to be Clark's first love, and her Fire Chief husband Kyle Cushing (Erik Valdez). The adults aren't the only ones rediscovering old friendships in Smallville as the Kent sons are reacquainted with Lana and Kyle's rebellious daughter, Sarah (Inde Navarrette). Of course, there's never a dull moment in the life of a superhero, especially with Lois' father, General Samuel Lane (Dylan Walsh) looking for Superman to vanquish a villain or save the day at a moment's notice. Meanwhile, Superman and Lois' return to idyllic Smallville is set to be upended when a mysterious stranger (Wolé Parks) enters their lives. (September 14 - April 13)

In the summer of 1955, Emmett Till, a 14-year-old youth from Chicago, travelled down to Mississippi to visit his uncle and cousins. While standing outside a country store in Money, MS, Emmett whistled at Carolyn Bryant, young, attractive woman. Her husband, Roy Bryant, and his brother, JW Milam, came under the cover of night and abducted Emmett from his uncle's home. Three days later, Emmett's body was found in the Tallahatchie River, beaten beyond recognition. Mamie Till Mobley managed to have his body shipped back to Chicago, where she ordered an open casket funeral, generating national news coverage, with over 50,000 visitors, and subsequent public outrage. In Mississippi, Roy Bryant and JW Milam were arrested and tried for the murder of Emmett Till. After five days, an all-white jury found the men not guilty. A photo of Emmett's disfigured face published in Jet magazine has become a worldwide sensation, shocking not only the black community but also others worldwide.

About the epic love story between John Lennon and Yoko Ono. Ono and Lennon first met in the late '60s, when she was an up-and-coming artist and he was one of the biggest music stars in the world. She became indelibly linked with Lennon as he transitioned from the Beatles breakup to a soaring solo career. Together they became provocative advocates for peace, and activism against the Vietnam War. After a brief separation in the mid-1970s, they again became constant companions until his 1980 murder in New York. She remains the gatekeeper of his music and legacy.

He’ll attempt to reconnect with his creative and thoughtful son (Kale Culley) and his headstrong, somewhat rebellious teenaged daughter (Violet Brinson) and navigate clashes with his family – an ADA brother (Keegan Allen) who stepped in during Walker’s absence, his perceptive mother (Molly Hagen) and his traditional rancher father (Mitch Pileggi). The story is both a rigorous examination of the 30-year friendship between Bill Gates and Warren Buffett which has resulted in the largest philanthropic initiative of all time, and an exploration of the role of super-philanthropy in a world where so much wealth now lies in the hands of so few. Gates made his reputation and his fortune by co-founding software giant Microsoft with Paul Allen in 1975. He resigned from day-to-day operations of that company in 2006, after being the target of anti-trust litigation brought by the U.S. government. Along with his wife, Melinda, he subsequently devoted himself to full-time charity work at the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation. Buffett is a private investor who began buying stocks in a small textile firm called Berkshire Hathaway in 1962. The company is now the third largest in the country. He is currently the 4th richest man in the world, but he still lives in Omaha in the same house he purchased in 1956. In 2006 Warren pledged the majority of his wealth to Bill and Melinda's foundation. Their combined philanthropic work includes vaccines, education in under-served areas of America, infant mortality, combatting global poverty, and women's rights in the developing world. To date, the foundation has donated more than $300 million to the search for a coronavirus vaccine.

Kristin Newman spent much of her twenties and thirties buying dresses to wear to her friends' weddings and baby showers. Not ready to settle down and in need of an escape from her fast-paced job as a sitcom writer, Kristin instead traveled the world, often alone, for several weeks each year. In addition to falling madly in love with the planet, Kristin fell for many attractive locals, men who could provide the emotional connection she wanted without costing her the freedom she desperately needed. Kristin introduces readers to the Israeli bartenders, Finnish poker players, sexy Bedouins, and Argentinean priests who helped her transform into "Kristin-Adjacent" on the road—a slower, softer, and, yes, sluttier version of herself at home.

Toward the end of the Vietnam era, in a snug little Rhode Island seacoast town, wonderful powers have descended upon Alexandra, Jane, and Sukie, bewitching divorcées with sudden access to all that is female, fecund, and mysterious. Alexandra, a sculptor, summons thunderstorms; Jane, a cellist, floats on the air; and Sukie, the local gossip columnist, turns milk into cream. Their happy little coven takes on new, malignant life when a dark and moneyed stranger, Darryl Van Horne, refurbishes the long-derelect Lenox mansion and invites them in to play. Thenceforth scandal flits through the darkening, crooked streets of Eastwick—and through the even darker fantasies of the town's collective psyche.

The Wood is an honest look at friendship and dating from the perspective of three young Black males born and raised in the gentrifying L.A. suburb of Inglewood, fondly referred to by locals as the City Of Champions. The trio's struggles to balance fatherhood, ambition and loyalty force them to question if they are growing apart ... or closer together. With a knowing nod back to the characters of the 1999 film on which it is based, this romantic comedy showcases the humor and heart of young Black men and women trying to navigate life, love and likes on the 'Gram.

In a ruined and toxic future, a community exists in a giant silo underground, hundreds of stories deep. There, men and women live in a society full of regulations they believe are meant to protect them. Sheriff Holston, who has unwaveringly upheld the silo's rules for years, unexpectedly breaks the greatest taboo of all: He asks to go outside. His fateful decision unleashes a drastic series of events. An unlikely candidate is appointed to replace him: Juliette (Ferguson), a mechanic with no training in law, whose special knack is fixing machines. Now Juliette is about to be entrusted with fixing her silo, and she will soon learn just how badly her world is broken. The silo is about to confront what its history has only hinted about and its inhabitants have never dared to whisper. Uprising. (Summer 2021 - Spring 2022)

The holiday movie stars Jane Levy as Zoey Clarke, a whip-smart computer coder forging her way in San Francisco. After an unusual event, Zoey, who always preferred podcasts over pop songs, suddenly starts to hear the innermost wants, thoughts and desires of the people around her – her family, co-workers and complete strangers – through popular songs. At first, she questions her own sanity, but after getting some guidance from her musically adept neighbor, Mo (Alex Newell), and making a breakthrough with her ailing father (Peter Gallagher), Zoey soon realizes this unwanted curse may just be an incredibly wonderful gift as she connects with the world like never before.
